RED CROSS AID IS SOUGHT BY 73 FAMILIES

Homeless At Bordelonville Make Pleas After Wind Hits

NONE WERE KILLED

Storms Elsewhere Take Lives Of At Least 12 Persons

ALEXANDRIA, May 1.—(AP)—Seventy-three families, most of them home-owners, today had applied to the American Red Cross for aid at the emergency headquarters established at Bordelonville in Avoyelles parish yesterday following the storm which swept that area.

Bob Wingate, assistant National Red Cross disaster relief director, and Miss Jane Perry, general field representative of the Red Cross in Louisiana, today joined in the relief work.

The storm struck at 11:30 o'clock Monday night. There were no fatalities. Wash Jones, negro, about 70, previously reported dead, was resting well in an Alexandria hospital. Three persons were less seriously hurt.

Those applying for aid asked mainly for household goods.

J. Howard Fore of Bunkie, Avoyelles parish chairman of the Red Cross, said today that help would be rushed to meet the needs of the distressed.

Tornadic winds ripping across sections of southern Illinois, southeast Missouri and Arkansas and a cloudburst in east Texas killed at least 12 persons, injured many and caused thousands of dollars damage last night.

Six were killed and eight injured, one fatally, near Benton, Ark., as a tornado cut a 75-foot swath through a sparsely settled rural section.

At least two were killed and an unestimated number were injured as tornadoes bounced over southeastern Missouri and southern Illinois. Thirteen persons from both states were taken to a Cairo, Ill., hospital. Six were hurt at Marion, Ill.

J. E. McNeese, 50, of Richland, Tex., and his son, Cecil, 30, were killed when wind demolished their home. The 18-months-old daughter of Mrs. Ted Cook of Frankston, Tex., was torn from her mother's arms by a flood and drowned. A cloudburst washed the Cook family and others from beneath a culvert, where they had taken refuge.

Mrs. Ruby Hawks was killed when a building collapsed during a heavy windstorm at Grand River, Ky.

Heavy rain and hail accompanied swirling winds in the mid-south, causing damage to crops. Water swept into stores at Thomasville, Ala.

A wind storm uprooted trees and unroofed several buildings at Owensboro, Ky.

Those dead in the Tull community near Benton, Ark., were Ben Hicks, 50; Mrs. Ben Hicks, 48; Edward Hicks, 20, their son; Elijah F. Hicks, 63, brother of Ben Hicks; Miss Elsie Hicks, 28, daughter of Elijah Hicks, and Mrs. Sophie Miller, 27.

In southeastern Missouri, Lewis Campbell, 66, was killed on a farm north of Sikeston. The small son of Mr. and Mrs. Brownie Pettes of Bertrand lost his life in the storm.

Hail damaged the ripening strawberry crop in the Ozarks of northwest Arkansas, and trees in the apple and peach orchard region around Rogers were rooted by wind.

Windstorms cut through Louisiana Monday night, killing an aged negro and flooding highways and streets. More than 100 houses were smashed by the storm near Bordelonville.

MAYOR'S PUNCH COSTS HIM $2.50

ABBEVILLE, La., May 1.—(AP)—Mayor J. E. Kibbree was fined $2.50 in city court yesterday on a charge of assaulting P. Otis Broussard, head of the intake and certification bureau of Vermilion parish and former postmaster.

The fine was imposed by Mayor Pro-Tem Adams Morton. Police Chief Fils Domingues said the men fought on the sidewalk here yesterday.

Broussard said the mayor struck him and knocked him to the pavement after taking exception to certain portions of a radio speech made by Broussard in Lafayette Monday. Broussard said he had not mentioned the mayor's name in the address.

The mayor said he thought he was justified in striking Broussard and asked the mayor pro-tem not to fine Broussard.

GOONS' PARDON PLEAS RAPPED

Citizen Groups Make Formal Protests To Board

NEW ORLEANS, May 1.—(AP)—Citizens' groups today opposed any steps to pardon alleged election day sluggers as a "very serious frustration of justice" and converged on the board meeting to formally protest leniency toward the defendants.

The pardon board scheduled the first hearing on slugger cases for 2 p.m. today after disposing of other cases at their special session, and citizens were called upon to attend the hearing in the court of appeals room.

The first case to be taken up was that of August Hady, 40, an Old Regular precinct captain sentenced April 15 to pay a $100 fine and to serve two months in jail after conviction for assault and battery on Ferguson Colcock, a representative of the arbitration committee.

The next was the case of Eugene Gill, 38, former house of detention clerk, sentenced April 12 to pay a fine of $100 and serve three months in jail on a charge of damaging a newsman's camera.

Thirteen other applications for pardons for nine men convicted or formally charged in violence at the February 20 primary were set for consideration during the next two days.

Among the applicants was Philip (Nina) Patorno, Old Regular captain at the first precinct of the fifth ward where a series of alleged attacks on Sam Jones men occurred.

Five convicted Patorno men were reprieved by Governor Earl K. Long so they might apply for pardons and District Attorney Niels F. Hertz nolle prossed remaining charges in what attorneys said was an attempt to forestall pardon applications among a score of men charged.

Protests against pardons were filed by four organizations, the Peoples' league, the Louisiana Association for Clean Government, the Citizens' Voluntary Committee of Louisiana and the arbitration committee which settled election disputes.

T. Hale Boggs, chairman of the People's league, declared Governor Long

Yazoo City Officers Are Asked To Make Arrest Without Bail

NEW ORLEANS, May 1.—(AP)—Lee Meyer, 52-year-old salesman of Tulsa, Okla., died here today from pneumonia resulting from abdominal stab wounds allegedly suffered in an altercation with Colonel Robert E. Dalton, Meridian, Miss., oil man.

After his death a formal murder charge was filed against Dalton by Chief of Detectives John J. Grosch and Detective John Meredith, who conferred with the district attorney's office.

Dalton, who was dismissed and later recharged, laid the stabbing to Meyer's "kidding me," when the two, strangers, met in a hotel lobby here on the night of April 19.

After the preliminary charge had been dropped Dalton was released to Yazoo City, Miss., officers and made bond there on what police said was a bad check charge.

Last week Mrs. Meyer came to New Orleans to press the charges which police refiled. Today New Orleans authorities asked Mississippi officers to rearrest Dalton and hold him without bail.

DELHI FARMER SHOT TO DEATH

Quarrel Over Wife Of Barber Leads To Slaying

DELHI, La., May 1.—(AP)—Johnnie Gibson, 40, a farmer, was shot and killed on Main street yesterday and Virgil E. Carter, 44, a barber, was arrested.

One wild shot grazed the arm of a negro woman pedestrian and another ripped through the trousers leg of a bystander, William Higgins.

Rushed to a hospital here, Gibson died 15 minutes after the shooting which occurred at 1:45 p. m.

Dozens of shoppers and storekeepers on the main street rushed to the sidewalk in time to see Gibson plunge face forward into the street as the bullets found their mark one after one.

Bystanders who witnessed the shooting said that as Gibson walked past Carter's shop, the barber saw him, picked up his .38 calber pistol and ran to the door shouting Gibson's name.

As Gibson turned and approached the barber Carter opened fire, the first bullet taking effect, witnesses related. Gibson turned and ran but was unable to escape the deadly accuracy of Carter's aim, two more slugs piercing his chest from the back.

Onlookers, many of whom did not realize what was happening until Gibson fell, said they saw Gibson twitch violently as each of the bullets struck him. He ran nearly 100 yards in his effort to get away.

Townspeople said that Carter had been brooding over Gibson's alleged attentions toward Carter's wife and that some time ago Carter had slugged Gibson with a bottle during an argument involving Mrs. Carter.

FARLEY WINS IN MASSACHUSETTS PRIMARY VOTE

69 Of 72 Democrats On Slate Are Pledged For Him

DEWEY IS SUPPORTED

Republicans Unrestricted But Many Seen For New Yorker

BOSTON, May 1.—(AP)—An unin-structed Republican delegation and a Democratic slate almost entirely pledged to Postmaster General James A. Farley emerged today from Massachusetts' presidential primaries—fulfilling in large measure the desires of the two party political organizations.

With Bay state voters showing scant consideration for insurgent groups, an old age pension slate supporting Thomas E. Dewey, without his authorization, was overwhelmed by the "official" unpledged G. O. P. delegation. Democrats gave but little more support to independents who bucked their state committee's Farley delegation.

Although all of the state's 34 Republican delegates will go to the national convention without formal commitment, Dewey was sure of at least two votes. Hardly had the ballot-counting ceased when two of the successful candidates announced for the first time that they were for the New York district attorney as a representative of "the more progressive element of the party."

Of the 72 delegates elected by the Democrats—12 of them having a third of a convention vote apiece and 60 others having half a vote—69 were pledged to Farley. Two others broke the official Democratic slate and will go to Chicago at least technically unpledged. The third exception also was unpledged, but he has recorded himself publicly in favor of a third term for President Roosevelt.

One of the lightest presidential primary votes in the state's history—less than 10 per cent of the 2,000,000 total—resulted from the lack of clear-cut issues and the absence of an opportunity to express a direct presidential preference.

So overwhelming was the margin of victory for the Republican delegates at large that returns from 1,585 of the state's 1,609 precincts gave Governor Saltonstall 57,971; Senator Lodge 57,882; House Minority Leader Martin 51,357, and former State Treasurer John W. Haigis 51,804, as against 13,537 for William H. McMasters, top man of the old age pension pro-Dewey slate.

On the Democratic side, although a top heavy majority of the delegates were pledged to Farley, there was, nevertheless, certainty that some of the group would shift to President Roosevelt if he seeks a third term.

A poll of district delegates disclosed that a big percentage would vote for the president's renomination if given an opportunity.

The Farley slate was filed by state Democratic Chairman William Burke with the announcement that his action was taken in the belief that President Roosevelt would not seek renomination, and with the "assumption" that the president would receive the support of "Mr. Farley and the Democratic party as a whole" if he did.

JUROR FINED ON TWO INDICTMENTS

Motion for a new trial for J. Lloyd Warren, police jury president charged with receiving money from the parish other than per diem and mileage, was denied by Judge J. T. Shell in district court Wednesday morning and Warren was fined $50 each on two counts of the four indictments. Two other cases were nolle prossed.

The indictments resulted from alleged sale of gasoline to the parish by Warren and Warren, of which the defendant is said to be a stockholder.

Warren recently was found guilty on one count, and Judge Shell ordered trial on the second charge Wednesday morning on the record of the first trial. Warren was then found guilty, and the remaining counts were nolle prossed.

HOUSE KILLS HATCH BILL ON POLITICS

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(AP)—The house judiciary committee killed today the senate-approved Hatch bill to regulate political activities of state employes paid with federal funds.

The committee ordered the bill "tabled," meaning that it will be stuffed away in a pigeonhole.

The vote was not announced and Chairman Sumners, Democrat, Texas, refused to discuss the matter beyond making the bare announcement of disposal of the measure.

In addition to restricting the political activities of state employes paid in whole or in part with federal funds, the measure also would have limited personal campaign contributions to $5,000.

FIVE KILLED, 90 HURT IN CRASH

German Plane Shot Down, Plows Into English Houses

LONDON, May 1.—(AP)—Britain counted her first heavy civilian casualties of the war—at least one dead and 90 injured—as rescue workers toiled today in the furrow of wreckage ploughed by a German bomber that crashed last night in the east coast resort of Clacton.

The plane exploded with a blast that damaged 50 houses, causing damage unofficially estimated at £100,000 ($380,000).

Several persons, including one or two children, still were unaccounted for, and authorities feared they might be buried in the ruins of their homes. The body of a woman was the first recovered.

The four Germans composing the crew of the plane, which crashed as anti-aircraft guns raked the skies, were killed.

Forty-nine injured were admitted to hospitals, an official announcement said, but the extent of their injuries was not immediately disclosed.

The spot where the bomber, a huge Heinkel, crashed is at the busiest junction on the main street of Clacton, less than 50 miles from London.

The crash occurred shortly after three enemy planes had been sighted flying at a low altitude over the Humber river estuary—a favored objective of German mine-laying aircraft. Explosion of the plane indicated it was carrying explosives.

Apparently crippled by the anti-aircraft batteries, one of the planes headed inland, circled Clacton for half an hour, dropped a landing flare, and then suddenly plunged into a row of seven houses which it demolished.

The explosion blasted out a crater which eye-witnesses said was "as big as a house." Walls of neighboring homes collapsed, burying their occupants.

LITTLE SPITFIRE

By Jean Randall

YESTERDAY: Isobel tells Brenda about her love for Mac. Brenda is sympathetic but insists she doesn't like Mac, herself. To the dismay of The Street and especially of Miss Ormond, the ex-teacher, Brenda becomes friendly with the cartoonist, Hugh Saltus.

Chapter Seven

Sense Of Proprieties

ADELAIDE continued to be upset at Brenda's defiance of Miss Ormond. She went about for the rest of the day with a look of worry on her face and as soon as dinner was over she beckoned Mac from the dining room into the little office where she made out her bills and transacted such business as her impractical soul was capable of.

Brenda, loitering on the porch in the cool air of the evening, suddenly was aware that her first acquaintance of The Street loomed beside her.

She patted the step invitingly, her early antagonism forgotten. One of the girl's most likable traits was the ability to let bygones be bygones.

"Sit here and cool off," she said. "I'm trying to get the topography of The Street straight in my mind. Three houses on this side, seven on the other. Mrs. Arnold at the end across the street, Hugh Saltus's the very last house. Isn't that right?"

"Perfectly right." He sat down beside her, sighing heavily. "Brenda——"

"Good heavens!" she exclaimed, startled. "You nearly blew me away with that mournful breath. It must be contagious," she continued idly. "Mrs. Rosttetor—Adelaide—was sighing away exactly like that this morning!"

"And for the same reason, too, I imagine!" The reply came crisply. "Look here, Brenda! You're young, you're a stranger to The Street—to the town, so far as that goes!—you don't know Hugh Saltus——"

She jerked upright, all her pretty indolence gone as if by magic.

"Ha! So it's poor Hugh again, is it? I remember now — Adelaide wanted to speak to you after dinner. About me, was it? My highly improper conduct in calling at the studio yesterday afternoon?" Her low voice began to thrill with notes the unhappy young man remembered. Her blue eyes began to shine with stars which, lovely as they were, he could have dispensed with. "Granted," she said, "that a visit, even properly chaperoned by a housekeeper, is improper, would you mind informing me who appointed you the guardian of my conduct?"

"Adelaide asked me to speak to you——"

"And why you? Why not Eric? Or Hugh himself? Or Judge Harper? Why, of all the masculine residents in The Street, must Dion MacKelvey be requested to remonstrate with me? I'd love," she murmured low and sweetly, "to know! Truly I would!"

Mac fidgeted on the step. If only he had heeded that inner warning and refused to do Adelaide's bidding in this matter! But he was a person of determination. Having put his hand to the plow, he would not turn back. He said seriously:

"Perhaps because I'm the only one who is interested enough in you to want to keep you from making a mistake! You see, Hugh is a little different from most people—from the rest of us. His wife——"

At that one hundred pounds of curls, dimples, blue eyes and ruffled organdy exploded.

"Oh, pooh! And tosh! And fiddle-de-dee! What is there so improper in my stopping into anybody's studio for a chat? Even if Hugh Saltus has forty wives and they've all left him, it would be perfectly moral and upright—for me to call on him I mean! Aunt Anne told me The Street was very conventional. She didn't tell me it was prim and prissy and—and silly!" she ended emphatically. "And even if everybody else has to be like that, you don't!" The afterthought came in a tone so low he had to bend his head to catch it.

'I Want You To Be Happy'

"I AGREE with you it's silly," Mac admitted. "Saltus is a fine chap and there's no reason on earth why you shouldn't spend the afternoon in his studio if you like; no reason except that Miss Ormond and a few others around here will be shocked and make it uncomfortable for you." He smiled down at her placatingly. "I want you to be happy here, Brenda! I want you to like The Street—everybody on it! One has to make concessions to almost every neighborhood — almost every place one stays. You said they wouldn't take your writing seriously in New York. Well, that's the objection there. Here, it's an old-fashioned and perhaps too slavish adherence to the conventions. All I ask is ——"

But she continued to shake her head.

"It's time someone came along and taught them sense! They need a sense of proportion instead of a sense of the proprieties."

"You mean"—he spoke gravely—"that you intend going to the studio just the same?"

"Just the same; or perhaps a little oftener."

He rose. "You're a very foolish child then. Good night!"

It was almost dusk when Eric Mason, on his way to keep an engagement for the evening, nearly stumbled over the little figure on the steps.

"Brenda! My word! What're you mooning out here for?"

She replied with dignity: "I'm not mooning! I'm revolving a very important ethical question in my mind."

He grinned, dropped companionably down beside her and lighted a cigarette.

"The question being: shall you or shall you not yield to the prevailing sentiment against your going to see Saltus. Don't yield," he advised briefly. "Stand your ground."

"Does everybody in the house know the situation?" She sounded startled.

"In the house? You mean on The Street? My dear girl, I'd be willing to lay you a pretty penny that the sole topic of conversation in ten houses at this identical moment is Miss Brenda Burnham and her dropping in on Hugh yesterday afternoon. You can't sneeze in this neighborhood," he continued pathetically, "without sixteen people calling up and recommending their favorite nose drops, or cold remedy."

"But why? Why are they so interested in other people's affairs?"

"Because they have none of their own. Take Miss Ormond now. I can give a shrewd guess that she started all this. She has no life of her own—and I mean none, too! She can't read—I think her eyes bother her—she has no family, and I believe she's outlived most of her friends. There isn't much for the poor old soul to do but snoop about, watching the rest of us as we go our ways."

"Are you defending her?" Brenda inquired in astonishment.

"Merely explaining her." He tossed away his cigarette. "Judge Harper's another, only his interest is more friendly than Miss Ormond's. Then ther 's Mrs. Arnold and her Dorothy ——"

"Her daughter?"

More Warnings

HE CHUCKLED. "Her maid. She took Dorothy out of an orphan asylum more than twenty years ago. The heavy responsibility of the act still weighs on her. It was after Mr. Arnold was killed in a railroad accident and she felt she must have someone to live with her. Get Adelaide to tell you some day how long Mrs. Arnold's weighed the pros and cons of her act. It shook The Street, and Mrs. Arnold herself has never quite recovered from it."

"How old is Dorothy now, for heaven's sake?"

"Thirty-three; and the homeliest woman the Lord ever let live. But to hear Mrs. Arnold, you'd be justified in believing Dorothy to be a dream of pulchritude and her benefactor burdened with the heaviest responsibility ever placed on a woman's frail shoulders." He laughed again.

"Want to make me a bet, Brenda? It's this: Mrs. Arnold will call on you soon and ask you—sweetly and anxiously—not to do anything which might exert a wrong influence on Dorothy. She'll say that since she's made herself responsible for Dorothy's whole social and moral welfare she simply must be on her guard against anything which even faintly hints of Bohemianism!"

Brenda said in a wilted voice: "I don't believe a word of this, Eric!"

"A carton of cigarettes against five pounds of chocolates? Done!" He stood up. "You're in a different world now, my child. It's a pretty kind and nice world, all things considered, but . . . it needs some getting used to. You'll see!" His chuckle floated after him as he strode toward the sidewalk.

Brenda was due for one more warning before she slept. Isobel Burke knocked just as the younger girl was creaming her face. Brenda, catching sight of her in the mirror, made a little moue of defiance.

"Now don't you begin, Isobel!"

"M'm! So they've been at you already, have they? Who was it? The Ormond?"

"Better ask me who it wasn't!"

"I saw Mac edge out after you." Isobel seated herself and viewed her small hostess with relish. "I suppose Adelaide sicked him onto it!" Then she interrupted herself to say: "You look about ten in that thing, Brenda!"

Brenda glanced down at the thin peach-colored robe she wore. It was a frivolous garment, inset with lace, hand-hemmed, sleeveless and almost backless.

"It's cool!"

"It's lovely—and probably cost as much as I make in a month! I can't understand," she went on somberly, "why, with all your money — and Adelaide says you have scads!—you choose to come and live in a funny old place like this! A place," she went on oratorically, "where your business is everybody's business; where there isn't one single man, woman or child who is interesting—except Mac!—in the whole block. A place ——"

And then an odd thing happened. Brenda, who had so lately castigated The Street to Mac and Eric, who had been, at the exact moment Isobel knocked, telling herself passionately that tomorrow would see her trunk packed and her ticket bought for New York, now turned quite angrily on the red-haired girl who lounged in her rocker.

"I think there's something really sweet about the way everyone looks after one! I really like the interest people show in each other's affairs! I think they're all interesting, even Miss Ormond! I'm simply delighted that I'm going to live here a whole year!"

CHARMING YOUNG PRINCESS

PATERN 8717

Here's a new and simple little frock that will soar high in the preferences of chessy young juniors—for its smooth-as-cream silhouette, its gracefully full skirt, and because the detailing at the top has double effectiveness. It introduces a flash of contrast in an unusual and fascinating way, and it has a filling-out effect at the bustline. A row of buttons down the bodice stresses the slightly Victorian air which stamps 8717 as newest of the new!

Choose a really sophisticated and dashing contrast of colors for this. Violet and dull green are lovely together. So are gray and scarlet, or beige and porcelain blue. A navy frock with contrast of red and white polka dots would be very smart. Flat crepe, spun rayon and thin wool are good fabric choices.

Pattern No. 8717 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19. Size 13 requires 4 5-8 yards of 39-inch material without nap; 3-8 yard contrasting.

MRS. HENRY IS GRANTED SUPREME COURT APPEAL

LAKE CHARLES, La., May 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Tom Jo Henry, convicted murderess of a Houston, Texas, salesman, Tuesday was granted an appeal to the Louisiana supreme court.

District Judge John T. Hood immediately granted the petition for an appeal when presented to him today and June 10 was set as the date on which the supreme court will receive the 20 bills of exception which were filed Tuesday, together with Judge Hood's own statements in regard to the rulings.

Mrs. Henry was found guilty of firing a bullet into the head of Joseph P. Calloway, 42-year-old tire salesman, in order to obtain his automobile. The murder occurred March 14 on a deserted rice field near here.

The supreme court is not expected to complete its study of her case before arguments and receive briefs before fall.

NO FRAUD REVEALED IN RECOUNT IN RED RIVER

SHREVEPORT, La., May 1.—(AP)—A recount of the votes in three precincts of Caddo and Red River parish, where the Claiborne slate in the democratic primary election failed to receive any evidence of fraud, Harvey G. Fields, United States attorney, reported Tuesday.

The recount of the Red River parish polls was made by an impartial judge, clerk of court and members of the United States attorney's staff, Fields said. The discrepancies found were so slight as to be of no consequence and no further action will be taken.

He said that a count of the state and federal ballots revealed that in most instances the count had been correct or more than 99 per cent correct with one exception. This was in the count for sheriff in one precinct where a variation of ten votes was found. However, there were no evidences to show that protest had been filed and apparently sustained on this number of votes.

The recount was made as the result of protests filed with the United States attorney.

Barksdale Field Is Great Asset To U. S., Louisiana

$7,000,000 Air Base Has Payroll, Expenditure Of $3,500,000

By Don Ewing

SHREVEPORT, La., May 1.—(AP)—The [illegible] Barksdale Field, which [illegible] GHQ air [illegible] Field [illegible] of defense [illegible] of Five [illegible] and Caribbean [illegible] Mexico [illegible] a $3,000,000 [illegible] annually [illegible]

Every year the big army [illegible] spends $1 million [illegible] state just [illegible] disbursements [illegible] regular expenditures [illegible] and improvements [illegible] a $3,000,000 building program [illegible] Fort Worth [illegible]

It cost Shreveport $165,000 [illegible] to buy the land for Barksdale field, including the 22,000 acres [illegible] the United States government, but the financial returns not only to Shreveport but to all Louisiana have been at a rate that would make a Perry weak with envy. The government has spent $7,000,000 building the post and plans to spend $2,000,000 more on construction.

The post opened in 1932 with 46 officers, 341 enlisted men, and monthly disbursements of around $32,000.

As of last March, the latest date on which tabulations are available, it had 150 officers, 4,013 enlisted men and monthly disbursements of $297,000.

In 1932 47 disbursement vouchers monthly handled all of Barksdale's purchases. Now the total is 93 monthly. Payrolls are in cash.

This money, which is all quick-turnover money, spreads in many directions. It purchases supplies in Shreveport and New Orleans, other equipment in Monroe and Baton Rouge. The cash in soldiers spreads through stores, homes, churches, insurance companies, banks and savings accounts. Much goes home to support one or more dependents.

So far as possible, all purchases at the field are made in Louisiana for that is an army policy. The airport is a city of some 7,500 total population and Uncle Sam tries as far as possible to keep it a Louisiana city.

Barksdale field was placed in Louisiana—and in the northern part of [illegible] Atlantic and Pacific [illegible] Atlantic and Pacific [illegible] keep on [illegible] other forces [illegible] the Gulf of Mexico [illegible] inland [illegible] the heart [illegible] the nation [illegible] sporting [illegible] sun.

So, Barksdale field, located in about the geographical east-west center of the nation and well to the south of most possible Caribbean and Gulf of Mexico attack, is looked on as a major cog in preventing any such plan by any foe upon powers.

It can shoot squadrons of 400-mile an hour light bombardment planes to the Texas gulf coast quickly or to the tips of Florida. Although 1,000 miles away, it is administrative headquarters for the new 27th air base just established near Tampa, Fla., as another key in Gulf of Mexico and Caribbean defense. Placing a Florida air base under north Louisiana headquarters indicates the importance of the local post in the eyes of the flying generals. Barksdale supplied the experienced personnel for the Tampa base and will do the same soon for a new Alaska base.

Barksdale also can send flying units to the Atlantic or Pacific coasts quickly and in its frequent military maneuvers it has "fought" imaginary enemies from New England to Florida and from Florida across to the Texas-Mexico border.

In the coming maneuvers Barksdale is scheduled to play important air parts for both the "red" and the "blue" armies made up of 70,000 men "fighting" for control of the Sammie river valley. It is up this valley that defense experts believe attack might be made in that imaginary onslaught from a European coalition striking at this country simultaneously from the east, west and south. The Barksdale units will offer both an defense and an attack in these maneuvers.

Barksdale field originally was a pursuit base, for the third wing was a pursuit wing. It should be understood that Barksdale is actually the sixth air base in the army air corps, known as a "double base" which simply means it is double size and has double capacity for service in time of emergency. The new 27th air base at Tampa, under Barksdale is a sixth air base. The third wing, one of the mobile units of the general headquarters air force, makes its home at Barksdale, but has nothing to do with administration of the post or of the sixth air base. The wing goes out and fights—the base is merely its home quarters. Few understand this and consequently few realize that Colonel Lewis H. Brereton is commanding officer at Barksdale field, although a higher-ranking brigadier-general is stationed at the post. Brigadier-General Frederick L. Martin. General Martin commands the fighting wing, while Colonel Brereton directs the post and the base administration and activities.

The 20th pursuit group was the first unit to come to Barksdale field back in 1932. It now is stationed at Moffett field, California, but people here still talk of the records made by this unit in year after year supplying the winning squadron in national competition for the Frank Luke, Jr., memorial gunnery trophy. Luke was the young Arizona boy who in 16 days at the front in France shot down 16 enemy aircraft and then, when shot down himself, fought it out on the ground with his pistol until killed. The trophy is the most coveted in the air corps pursuit units and not until the 20th left Barksdale did the trophy leave here.

Then came the third attack group to Barksdale, and for several years it held the Colombian trophy, awarded annually for safety in army flying. Now, pursuit and attack have left under the new national defense expansion—and under the theory that long range bombers are the main line of air defense in this possible attack by a coalition of powers.

Barksdale now is a bombardment post, with the third bombardment group, the 27th bombardment group, each with three light bombardment squadrons, and a new medium bombardment squadron making up the new units of its third wing. The planes ordered for these units, and expected to be delivered this summer, are described as the fastest bombers in the world, cruising range considered, with ability to cruise to any point in the Barksdale radius at 400 miles an hour and to carry heavy bombs, light cannon and medium and heavy machine guns.

The post already is the home of the two-motored A-18-A plane, the only one of its type in service in the world up to the start of the present European war. This fast, light plane carried heavy armament and specialized in ground strafing of troops. One of its main weapons of attack was use of parachute bombs—100-pound bombs dropped at 100 feet altitude, floating slowly to the ground on tiny parachutes, and exploding just above ground. The explosion sends thousands of pieces of shrapnel—equal to thousands of bullets—spreading in every direction. A squadron of them sending scores of bombs down on small parachutes presents an amazing—and deadly—sight.

The new light two-motored bombers are developments of the A-18-A and

Assault On Crime

Unmasking of entrenched crime and apprehension of the culprits is slow business. For the most part organized crime operates in large population centers where the pickings are richest and detection is difficult. There, too, it is easier to make those connections with politics so essential to the protection of evil-doers.

Within a few months, however, New York City has seen a round-up of malefactors that is both shocking and encouraging.

Even omitting the Hines case, with its implications of political protection in high quarters; the McKesson scandal, with its revelations of skullduggery in big business, and the Whitney scandal, there is an impressive list of actions pending.

Abe Reles, more colorfully known as Kid Twist, is reported to have listed fifty-three murders executed by Murder Incorporated, that underworld society which rubbed out troublesome persons at a sliding scale of prices.

Joe Adonis, called the key figure in a crime syndicate operating in Kings county, is being investigated and his auto sales company, suspected of being a blind for illegitimate activities, has been denied renewal of license.

A purge of the police department has been started by Police Commissioner Valentine as the result of an investigation of bail bond frauds and other abuses, particularly in Brooklyn, where efforts to clean up an unsavory condition have been stubbornly resisted.

Topping all this, a probe by agents of the federal alcohol tax unit, lasting a full year, has resulted in the indictment of 122 men charged with conducting a five-state bootleg ring. This is the largest number of men ever named in a single indictment in a federal court.

Federal, state and local authorities have been cooperating in these assaults on organized crime. For the state the key figure has been of course District Attorney Dewey, assisted by a large and able staff.

Although the final pay-off will come only when the juries turn in their verdicts, the care and energy with which these cases have been prepared promise the most efficient house-cleaning which the metropolis has yet seen.

If the attack is sustained, instead of being allowed to peter out as in most periods of reform, the incentive to easy money by the racketeering method will be considerably reduced.

New York City has for years been the headquarters of gigantic rackets of all sorts, many of them with national ramifications. It is not a mere coincidence therefore that the nation's largest city also has the highest and most numerous taxes of any municipality in the country, including a city sales tax.

Rackets and high taxes always go hand in hand.

Domestic Issues First

Unless America's relationship to the affairs of Europe becomes a great deal more direct than it is at the present time, the forthcoming presidential contest should be fought out on the basis of domestic issues. Fortunately, this point of view has been adopted by several leading aspirants for White House honors.

Many domestic problems remain to be solved. Unemployment, for example, is still a matter calling for intelligent debate with a view to practicable remedial measures. Taxation, indebtedness and government control of business and industry are a few of the other distinctly American issues that should be dealt with in an enlightening manner.

For Uncle Sam to stick his nose into Europe's mess when his own house is not in order would be the height of political folly. American public opinion favors a hands-off policy with reference to the international situation. And that leaves concentration on domestic affairs as the most fruitful and promising method of conducting a worth-while race for the presidency.

Distinction Without Difference

Probably this time of ours will stand out above all others for its hypocrisy. We like to invent little locutions to make the unpleasant taste more palatable. Thus in the war news you can almost always interpret "a strategic retirement to previously prepared positions" as "a good licking."

But the Germans, with their "protective custody" for internment or imprisonment, and "protective occupation" for invasion, bid fair to carry off the palm. A German admiral, one Lutzow, has reached the apex in saying of the Narvik naval battle that "The enemy did not succeed in winning the fight against these destroyers and in destroying them." Lutzow explains that before any such misfortune could happen, the crews scuttled the ships.

This is one of the finest examples we have ever seen of a distinction without a difference.

80,000 New Readers

One of the finest of many fine things accomplished by the Civilian Conservation corps has been to teach 80,000 young men to read.

About three boys of every 100 registering for the camps has proved unable to do so. Using special books designed for young men rather than children, the camp instructors have been able to teach such boys to read a newspaper and to write ordinary letters within three months. Some were able to write letters home within two months.

It is embarrassing to think that somehow these 80,000 young men slipped around the public school system without getting the most elementary preparation for life—the ability to read and write. But better late than never, and the CCC thus sets another feather firmly in its cap.

THE RADIO AND THE WAR

"Do you follow the war news on the radio?" asked Mrs. Beezums.

"Yes, thanks to my husband's dandruff," replied Mrs. Woopsey.

"Dandruff?" questioned Mrs. Beezums, a little puzzled.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Woopsey. "George is troubled that way so he always tunes in on the hair tonic program which features three war experts just now."

"Is it a good program?"

"Good! Why, we get all the latest news of what's happened at Narvik right in between the talk on scalp massage and the chat on the importance of hair gloss in personal appearance. Don't you ever hear of it?"

"No," replied Mrs. Beezums, "but we manage to follow the war pretty well."

"How?"

"Cigars, gasoline and chocolate bars," said Mrs. Beezums tersely. "The Clinker Five-Cent Stogie program has a wonderful analyst, who explains everything that happens. The Sweety Nut Bar hour has a correspondent in Oslo."

"Oh, there's a couple of wonderful analysts on the Garoopa Salad Oil hour," declared Mrs. Woopsey. "Yesterday right between a fresh bombing of a British warship off Trondheim and a fight south of Bergen I got the loveliest recipe for a banana salad."

"One of the yeast programs has a retired United States general on it," sighed Mrs. Beezums. "He's very good. And there's the sweetest naval officer on the Zopher Tooth Paste program."

"Did you ever hear about those canned soup people?" demanded Mrs. Woopsey.

"No," replied Mrs. Beezums.

"It's gone and hired Dudley G. Botts, the famous war correspondent and author, to go over the whole war every evening at 8:15."

"That's nothing. There's a British rear admiral and a United States major of marines on the Skipsey-Ipsey Beer hour. They're quite remarkable."

"I don't care for that beer," said Mrs. Woopsey.

"Oh, but the admiral and the major are so good you forget all about the beer, my dear. There's some sort of a cash prize for a slogan, too. They explained it between the shelling of Narvik and the situation in Rumania," argued Mrs. Beezums.

"I just love war programs," said Mrs. Woopsey, "I mean if they have the right sponsors. Now, there's a war expert on the Zoopala Mustard program, but I just don't like mustard, so I'm not interested."

"Oh, listen," exclaimed Mrs. Beezums, rushing to her radio. "It's one of those watch company programs. There's always a wonderful summary of the whole European situation on any watch program. Aren't you going to listen?"

"No; I've got a watch," replied Mrs. Woopsey.

The estate of John D. Rockefeller has succeeded in getting Lakewood, New Jersey, to accept, free of charge, the 550-acre showplace of the late oil king down there. Some people have all the luck.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

HARD TIMES FOR YOUTH

There is always friction between the older and younger generations but at present there seems to be more than usual. Conditions of living are unusual, work is scarce, money hard to get and of less value than it used to be. Heads of families are worried beyond anything known in our experience as a nation. There seems to be more of difficulty than of ease ahead for the young people and that alone would account for the anxiety of their elders and their irritation, so incomprehensible to their children.

Youth lacks experience and age has it. Experience tends to give the elders certain sets of mind and in their anxiety for the safety of the youth they try to impress those sets on their minds and actions. They push hard to help them and because the response is grudging or missing, begin scolding and threatening and nagging.

Why don't you study? If you set your mind on something worth while instead of this nonsense about going here and going there, you'd get somewhere. You ought to take a course instead of bothering with fiddling jobs that have no future. Go look for a job intelligently, why don't you? Think somebody is coming up to hand you one? When I was your age I was supporting a family. So on and so on, not meaning to be harsh and irritating but meaning to be helpful.

One must be patient with young people, more patient than ever before because their lot is more difficult. And one ought to be less certain of the suggestions and orders given young people for their guidance. The experience of the past may have benefited the one who had it and it might, if put to us, benefit another, but the bald fact remains that youth must find its own way, make its own way, always. The experience that helps inform the mind and discipline the character must be personal. The young people must experiment, fail and succeed and experiment again and again until some way is discovered that leads to success and we must know that success is individual and is not handed down from father to son, from teacher to pupil.

What the young people need and can take from his elders is encouragement for the efforts they make. Too often they meet with criticism instead. Why did you go in for art? Don't you know artists are starving? Maybe he was so full of the idea of art that he could do nothing else. What business have you with chemicals? You don't know anything about chemicals? Where do you expect to get? He doesn't expect to get to any particular place just now. He is feeling his way toward some goal that is hidden from him—and from you—and he is following the inner voice of his being, a much wiser course than following the voice of some loud-spoken well-wishing outsider. Praise every effort. Withhold advice and direction until you are asked for it.

Immediate earning is a necessity for most young people today and they are often forced to take work that they dislike. Encourage them. Teach them that no experience is real work is ever lost. It adds its weight of power to the mind and the skill of the worker, and in time, a worker reaches the place of his choosing if he has chosen his own work.

We are not to be troubled by the fact that young people often think of work in terms of dreams. Comfort them when they are shocked by reality and keep before them, and before ourselves, the truth that reality will not harm any of us, especially young people, as long as it is met with understanding and the will to overcome.

Is meal-time a troublesome problem in your family? For valuable advice about getting children to eat as they should, send for Angelo Patri's booklet, "Eating," enclosing ten cents in coin. Address Angelo Patri, care this newspaper, Postoffice Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—The attitude of the army, navy and marine folk toward death is not that of the average layman. These men who walk and sail and fly with death have come to regard this one of the Four Horsemen pretty matter-of-factly and their only concern is that he not catch them wanting in courage or bearing the stigma of dishonor. Their women feel the same way about it.

Military funerals are solemn affairs, certainly the most impressive and beautiful of all military rituals, but there is little of sadness or grief about them. When taps are blown, and life's colors struck, the band strikes up a quick march and its "on with the show."

The Home Of Heroes

Thus, beautiful Arlington cemetery on the gentle hills and ravines above the Potomac, has a different atmosphere than any graveyard in the land. It is not a place of sadness and weeping, but rather a field of honor . . . a place where the living may come, not to grieve, but to pay homage to those who have given their lives to a nation and a cause. And military folk look on Arlington as a field of honor, where it is their privilege to lie down with the heroes who have marched before.

It is this feeling of special privilege, of almost private ownership, which causes the Arlington staff, headed by a colonel, occasional trouble.

For years, it has become the traditional right of the men who are to rest in Arlington to select the site of their interment.

The General Chooses

Almost any warm, sunny day, you can see on the paths of Arlington old men or old couples strolling about, eyeing this view or that with the object of selecting their plot. Once in a while, conflicting selections are made. To find a solution to these often calls for all the diplomacy that the staff can summon.

There was one old general, long retired, who spent months selecting his site. Almost every day when the weather was good, he and his wife would go to Arlington and tread the paths and search for their cemetery plot.

At last they found it, and the colonel, after considerable maneuvering, managed to assign it to them. The old couple were delighted and chief cause of their delight was a beautiful old elm that spread over a corner of the plot.

They Liked That Elm

Throughout the spring and summer and fall, they would go to the cemetery and sit in the shade of their tree and enjoy their view of the Potomac and distant Washington.

They came to be well known to the Arlington staff. For the general and his wife, the staff came to have a genuine affection.

Imagine the colonel's horror when he discovered during a casual early spring inspection, that the general's tree had disappeared. It had developed blight and the foresters had removed it.

The colonel went into action, routed out a detail of huskies and searched the Virginia hills until he found a big elm that matched the general's. Transplanting it was a whale of a job, the colonel recalls, but he got it done. The ground beneath was sodded before the general and his lady made their next visit.

The colonel and I are happy to report that the general's elm is now one of the finest in Arlington.

• ALL ABOUT BABIES

By Richard Arthur Bolt, M. D., Dr. P. H.

(Secretary, Maternal and Child Health Section of American Public Health Association)

Health is a delicate balance between many conflicting forces. A healthy balance of body and mind must be maintained by constant adjustments between the individual and his surroundings. His ability to make these adjustments depends upon his heredity, his intelligence, his training in health habits, his resistance to unfavorable conditions and his immunity, natural and acquired.

The community in which the child lives may make certain provisions to promote health and prevent disease which will bring into balance those forces which make for normal growth and development, but the individual must learn to do many things for himself.

In dealing with the child we must consider his mental and spiritual development, as well as his physical health. The healthy child is usually a happy child. What are some of the conditions which make for a happy, wholesome life?

In the first place there is "old man heredity." Oliver Wendell Holmes once said that if we could choose our ancestors we could have a better and healthier race. That being impossible, we must encourage the present generation of young people to make better choices in their mates. The importance of a healthy, vigorous stock to produce healthy children cannot be overestimated.

We may not be able to do much, if anything, about our heredity, but we can provide more adequately for the oncoming generation. In this connection, too much cannot be said in urging proper prenatal care for the expectant mothers. An adequate, balanced diet, freedom from disease and defects, plenty of fresh air and sunlight, rest and recreation and a mind free from fears and worry not only help to promote a healthy pregnancy, but put the mother in a better position to nurse her baby and care for its daily needs.

Health habits really begin at birth. The regularity with which the baby is fed, his daily routine of bathing, sleeping and association with his parents lay the foundations for more exacting health habits later in childhood. Psychologists tell us that habits good and bad are largely formed in the pre-school years.

Next to a good nourishing diet and health habits we must place recreation in the form of play and lots of sleep for the growing child. Children should play and rest in the open air as much as possible. They should gradually be exposed to the sun, with protection of the eyes. In the northern and eastern parts of the United States there is very little sunshine in the winter months. Children should be given cod liver oil daily in these parts to make up for the deficiency of ultra violet rays.

A healthy child is free from debilitating diseases and defects. The child should therefore be protected against those diseases for which we have immunizing measures such as smallpox, diphtheria, etc. He should be under the supervision of a physician who will give periodic examinations and correct any remediable defects which may appear.

The location of the club house is ideal with an excellent view of the river and country roundabout. Jack Keith is in charge of the golf links and declares the fairways to be in perfect condition.

The club house will be completed and ready for occupancy later in the summer.

The output of the Zeigan well completed yesterday in LaSalle parish is in a class with the highest priced oil in the state. The report shows a seventy per cent lubricating stock and no gasoline content.

HOLLYWOOD, May 1.—Is a Texas lawyer questioning Ginger Rogers' years-old divorce on grounds that when she was supposedly establishing residence in the Lone Star state—she was on the New York stage in "Girl Crazy"? . . . "$1,000 Marriage" stopped cameras four days while big Tom Kennedy, kicked by a horse, went to a hospital . . . Jack Holt celebrates his 24th screen year this week.

Lee Tracy and Mrs. are eastbound, playbound . . . Radio's Abbott and Costello are dickering with "U" for a summer pic. . . . Clarksville, Tennesseeans are working to get Helen Wood (native daughter) the lead in "The Amazing Life of Sergeant York." Papers there are front-paging the campaign. . . . Why does L. B. Mayer persist in keeping the Hardy family off radio? . . . Anne Shirley and John Payne will loll a month on an ocean freighter before she greets the stork.

An unusual gesture on the part of the "U" stage crew, who gave Nancy Kelly a carved egg, bearing a silver plate reading: "To Nancy Kelly, one swell egg." . . . Put it down in your future book that Robert Preston will not marry Kay Feltus. . . . The West Coast producer who was about to toss Lois Andrews an offer changed his mind when she nestled with Jessel.

Binnie Barnes and Radio Announcer Mike Frankovitch were pricing Mexican marriage licenses at Tia Juana April 22. Were they wed, which they deny? . . . The Basil Rathbones rejected a Liberty article (swell publicity) because it meant photographing their adopted, fifteen-month-old sugar and spice. . . . The Thelma Woodruff now featured in RKO's "Have It Your Way" was Jackie Coogan's leading lady (age 3) in "The Kid."

Laugh of the Week: Peter Hayes' story about the drunk who awakened in a hospital to find himself swathed in bandages. Of a bedside chum he demanded, "What happened?" "Don't you remember?" said the pal. "We were having a party in your eighteenth-floor apartment. You went to a window and said you were going to step out, fly around the building once and return." "For heaven's sake," screamed the victim, "why didn't you stop me?" "Heck," answered the chum, "I thought you could make it!"

Preview Notes: Hit-of-the-week: "The Doctor Takes a Wife," which will drown your troubles in laughs, and allow a little time out for the men folk to ogle Loretta Young's charms. . . . With "If I Had My Way," "Bingo" Crosby hits the lucky number again. . . . Glendale previews bring out the biggest autograph chasing crowds. . . . "Typhoon" parades the physiques of Dot Lamour and Bob Preston—more exciting than the typhoon itself. Swell dialogue when Preston says of Lamour, "She's only a child" and Lynne Overman retorts, "I never saw anything like that in a nursery!" . . . Week's cleverest preview invitation: Roach studios bid to "Turnabout," printed in reverse with a mirror for deciphering.

Quotes and Comments: Jeffrey Lynn: "Underneath her glamour, Ann Sheridan is an especially talented actress and don't be surprised if someday she wins an academy award." H-oomph! . . . Robert Stack: "Honestly, movies amaze me!" Honestly, Bob, me too! . . . Irene Dunne: "If your husband likes bridge, learn to play even if you can't stand the sight of cards." But for heaven's sake, don't trump his ace! . . . In a fan mag: "Richard Greene has taken the past performances, traditions and history of Hollywood and knocked them into a cocked hat." That's what I call hurling a dimple! Merle Oberon: "I wouldn't have married anyone out of the profession unless he had a career of his own every bit as important as a screen career." Since when is a movie career important?

One Man's Opinion: If more impulsive youngsters would take time to weigh marriage responsibilities before eloping, there would be an astounding drop in Hollywood divorces.

Hollywood After Dark: Una (New York Rainbow Room) Wyte, opening at Hollywood's Somerset House tonight is swell screen stuff. . . . Amazonian Geraldine Ross, Florentine Gardens star, singing torch songs to mite-y George E. Stone, adoring her nightly from a floor-side table. . . . MISSOURI PACIFIC WOULD USE BRIDGE AT ORLEANS

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(AP)—The Texas & Pacific railway, the Missouri Pacific railroad, and the Texas Pacific-Missouri Pacific terminal railroad of New Orleans today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to abandon car ferry facilities at New Orleans and to use a bridge across the Mississippi river instead.

By using the bridge instead of ferry boats, the applicant said, delay of trains will be avoided, economics effected, and schedules expedited.

SUNDAY LIQUOR ARREST MADE

Grocer Gains Release Under $300 Bond On Charge

Sheriff Milton Coverdale announced Wednesday the arrest of L. F. Puckett, grocer and saloon operator near Sterlington for selling whiskey on Sunday.

The charge and arrest Tuesday grew out of the arrest Sunday of a negro, Mose Hamilton, who made a statement to the effect that he was selling the liquor for Puckett.

Puckett was released under a $300 bond shortly after his arrest. He operates the combination grocery and saloon at the intersection of the Bastrop-Sterlington highways.

The negro, Hamilton, lives near the store in a shack here several pints of bottled in bond whiskey were confiscated at the time of his arrest.

Puckett was arrested after District Attorney F. W. Lawthorne filed a charge of selling liquor on Sunday against him on the strength of the negro's statement.

Sheriff Coverdale said he had received several complaints from the vicinity of Puckett's store that whiskey was being sold there on Sunday but that while sales were not actually made from the store, Puckett was suspected of storing the liquor in Hamilton's house to be sold by Hamilton and then collecting the money from him.

Rochester Of Radio Cause Of 'Kidnap,' Student Riot

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 1.—(AP)—The first riot of spring occurred in Harvard square last night and seven Harvard students were arrested for disturbing the peace.

The riot, which embodied all the usual features of Harvard square spring disturbances, apparently was selected from a combination of the warm evening air and the fact that a group of Massachusetts Institute of Technology students put one over on the Harvards by abducting Rochester Anderson, negro student on the Jack Benny radio program.

Rochester, scheduled to appear at a Harvard smoker, turned up instead at the Delta Kappa Epsilon house at M. I. T. after being persuaded by a group of Delts to leave the place at Providence, R. I., and motor to Cambridge.

The conspirators thought he was at Harvard until they found later. The riot which found some 250 students milling around in the square followed, after giving police quite a workout for about an hour.

PRODUCTION TESTS IN NEW OLLA FIELD

CLARKS, La., May 1.—(Special)—An oil production test was being made at 2,252.62 feet, in H. L. Hunt's Louisiana Central Lumber company's No. 11, Sunday. On two previous tests this well showed gas in large quantities, and on another test showed both oil and salt water.

Hunt's No. 10, which on previous tests has shown both oil and salt water, will be tested again this week.

Casing was being set in Hunt's No. 12, Sunday, and it will be ready for a production test in the latter part of the week.

Arkansas Fuel Oil Company's Goodpine No. A-1 was ready to set casing on Sunday. A production test will be made on it this week.

A derrick is being erected by H. L. Hunt on Louisiana Central Lumber company's No. 13, located in SW of the NE. section 13-10-2E.

Hunt's No. 9, the discovery well, and Arkansas Fuel Oil and Hunt's Goodpine No. 1, located within a quarter of a mile of each other, are the two producers in the new Olla field.

GREEN CHARGES LEWIS MAY SEEK PRESIDENCY

PITTSBURGH, May 1.—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, charged yesterday John L. Lewis, head of the rival C. I. O., was attempting to organize a third party so Lewis could become its candidate for president.

Green, in an extemporaneous address before the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, never once mentioned Lewis by name but he referred to him as the chief of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Green said Lewis told the American Youth conference and the American Negro congress and would tell the "Townsendites" next month at St. Louis "Come on with me and we'll form a new party." He added:

"What for? To nominate him for president. Isn't that a logical conclusion?"

Green said that in 1927 and 1928 the C. I. O.'s mine workers "was practically in the grave" and that President Roosevelt "brought the union back to life."

We cordially extend an invitation to the people of this section to visit our new store on its formal opening Thursday and Friday.

H. R. HAYES HAS FORMAL OPENING

Formal reopening of the H. R. Hayes Lumber company, which was demolished by fire in October, 1939, will be held Thursday and Friday, the owner, Mr. Hayes, announced today.

Celebration of the new opening coincides with the twelfth anniversary of service of the company to the people of Monroe and West Monroe.

Mr. Hayes described the rebuilt organization as a "new and greater retail building material store, fully equipped to continue its quality service to builders in this area."

In connection with the anniversary-opening the Hayes Lumber company which is located at 200 Bridge street in West Monroe is holding a contest, the prize winner to receive a 90-piece set of Fiesta dinnerware glassse and cutlery, Mr. Hayes said.

The contest is to familiarize people in this area with Plax, a Lowe Brothers paint product, which will be on display at the opening of the building material store. In addition to lumber, the new store will carry a complete line of other building materials.

Visitors during the opening days Thursday and Friday are asked to look at the Plax color fiesta, then write a 25-word statement on a contest entry blank which will be available at the Hayes Lumber company.

Winners of the dinner ware ensemble will be judged by three local men and the decision of the judges will be final, Mr. Hayes said. In case of ties, duplicate awards will be made.

The staff of the newly reconstructed building material store in addition to Mr. Hayes includes Tom A. Sanders, general manager; Ed Watkins, salesman; Carl Riggins, salesman; Hoy Anders, bookkeeper; Bessie McLemore, stenographer; Carl Jackson, draftsman; E. L. Russell, shipping clerk; R. C. Murphy, assistant shipping clerk; E. R. Russell, collector; Curtis Taylor, Lenward Andirsch and Jimmie Ethington, truck drivers; and Joe Harver and Will Bell, helpers.

appeared to be attempting "to make a farce of justice in the state of Louisiana by calling a mock hearing of the pardon board" and called upon citizens to attend the hearing en masse.

Marshall Ballard, Jr., chairman of the Association for Clean Government, requested the board to "respect the public morals for decency of Louisiana," by rejecting the applications.

Any steps taken to grant pardons in the slugger cases, he said, would be "a very serious frustration of justice."

Joseph A. Airey, chairman of the Citizens' Voluntary Committee, and William J. Guste, chairman of the arbitration committee, said their bodies would also present formal protests.

At the morning session two cases were under consideration. They were petitions presented by Dr. Harvey Dillon, former superintendent of the Louisiana Training institute at Monroe, convicted in a "scandals" case, and Earl James Angelle, sentenced to life imprisonment on a murder charge in St. Martin parish.

Dr. Dillon was convicted on a charge of embezzlement of money and supplies from the institute. He declared his prosecution was "purely political" and that his conviction was obtained "by political powers adverse to your petitioner as the result of public hysteria."

He pointed out that he had been charged with misappropriating such articles as "second hand brickbats, potato slips and fishhooks."

neutral attitude in word and deeds, Church wrote a lengthy letter to the Times accusing Germany of "murdering civilization." Later he wrote another charge which the British reprinted and dropped by thousands from the air into Germany.

Church told the Times he had no objection to making the offer in his official capacity as president of the Carnegie institute since Andrew Carnegie founded a peace organization and believed in "the association of nations with power to enforce peace."

The appeal for Hitler's capture, Church said, was directed to adventuresome youths. He added that he considered it unwise to attempt to deliver Hitler to the league's seat at Geneva, in the event of capture, because the Reich's army would overrun Switzerland.

"The proper goal would be England," he said. "But the question of trial would be too big for Great Britain or any other one country. A court of all the civilized nations of the world should try such a case, and the United States should be a member of such a court."

Church is a retired vice-president of the Pennsylvania railroad and an officer of the French Legion of Honor.

house, was blown into a tree-top. Other trees were uprooted and fell across the street.

As first aid crews went to the aid of the injured another plane was heard overhead and all lights were ordered extinguished, adding to the difficulty of rescue work.

The crash caused the biggest turnout of air raid precautions units under actual wartime conditions in Britain since the start of the war.

Witnesses said the center of Clacton looked as though it had undergone an artillery bombardment, traffic was completely disorganized today and bus service was rerouted around the town.

By an ironic coincidence, Clacton hotel operators, seeking to assure the public of the safety of the resort, announced only yesterday that their guests would be given a one-third discount on their bills for any day on which a bomb fell near the town or a mine exploded near the promenade pier.

Residents along the Yorkshire coast told of hearing two airplanes overhead and several heavy explosions and seeing tracer bullets fired from guns at sea.

POSTOFFICE COLD TO 'NORTH POLES'

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(AP)—The postoffice department repeatedly is turning a cold shoulder to the desire of American cities to rename themselves North Pole.

The second request within a month for such a change has just been denied. The last two, incidentally, came from Wisconsin.

Officials say that if they ever established a North Pole in the United States they probably would have to recognize 47 more before the end of a year.

KENTUCKY DERBY SATURDAY DRAWS NINE HORSES

BIMELECH HAS BEST CHANCE TO TOP FIELD

Bradley's Star By Self According To His Past Record

DIT PICKED SECOND

Others Seem To Enter Race Mostly For Exercise

By Sid Feder

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 1.—(AP)—It's one of those daffy things without rhyme or reason, like the guy who took off his hat because his feet were hot, but all signs pointed today to the fact that eight other horses actually are going to the post with Bimelech in the Kentucky Derby Saturday.

What they'll be in there for no one among the thousands already in Derby Town for the big show seems to know. Of course, that $8,000 second money "ain't hay," and in times like these you are not sneezing at $2,000 for third or even $1,000 for fourth. But these doesn't seem to be any chance for anything with four legs catching Bimmie once he throws 'er in high.

The way he came home in 1.38 on a slow track in the Derby trial at Churchill Downs yesterday, with his tongue hanging out as usual, made one thing just about a dead-eyed cinch. The other fellows are going to get a lot of his dust kicked in their faces—provided they can stay within kicking distance.

Colonel E. R. Bradley's baby finished by working a mile-and-eighth in 1.52, and afterwards Trainer Bill Hurley was so happy he couldn't talk.

Several of the candidates thought they had an outside chance up to yesterday. But after the trial was over, five of them saw the light. Of those in the trial, only Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Gallahadion, a $5,000 yearling purchase at Saratoga two years ago, which ran a creditable second to Bimmie yesterday, and Charles T. Fisher's Sirocco, which wound up third, will get a ticket to the Derby post.

These and the other die-hard optimists who still think maybe Bimmie'll run the wrong way or something, make the picture for the Derby post parade look something like this:

Horse	Approx. Odds
Bimelech	2-5
Dit	8-1
Mioland	10-1
Pictor	10-1
Gallahadion	15-1
Roman	15-1
Royal Man	25-1
Sirocco	30-1
Sky Dog	200-1

GILBERT TEAM DEFEATS ST. JOSEPH NINE, 2 TO 1

Counts, pitching for Gilbert, allowed one hit, struck out nine, and walked only one man. Cassibry and Jones for St. Joseph allowed six hits. Counts, led the Gilbert hitting attack, getting two hits. Brown got St. Joseph's only hit.

Semi-Final Pleases Fans; Main Event Provides Rough Stuff

Monroe wrestling fans filled the Monroe Wrestling arena nearly to capacity last night to see Bob Arthur, the strong boy from Columbia Military academy, lose a hard fought match in straight falls to Bob Castle of Kansas City. While this was the semi-final, it seemed to please the fans as much as the main event in which Duke Ruppenthal of Milwaukee beat Chin Lee, the Chinaman from 'Frisco.

While Chin Lee showed himself to be a very cagey if somewhat rough matman, and took the first fall with a cradle hold in 19 minutes, Ruppenthal turned on the steam to win the last two falls in spectacular finishes.

The second fall was very snappy, lasting only six minutes. After a few minutes of doubtful tactics by Chin Lee, Ruppenthal went wild to administer a nice, clean dose of forearm sluggings, followed by a Japanese armbreaker. Lee was lifted clear of the floor by the hold and quickly gave up.

The third heat was anyone's fall until the very last. Lee continued his shady tactics all through the fall until Ruppenthal gave him a sample of the tough stuff by tangling his arm between the ropes. The Chinaman flew into a rage and began a series of body slams and it looked as if Ruppenthal was due to lose the match. However, Ruppenthal caught a rope as Lee was about to execute the last slam, and Butch Martin, refereeing, jerked the hand loose from the rope. This threw Lee off balance and he fell heavily to the mat, with Ruppenthal on top of him. Lee was then easily covered and pinned by Ruppenthal to end the fall in 12 minutes. Chin Lee objected to the awarding of the fall to Ruppenthal but was greeted with a cushion shower and left the ring.

Bob Castle won the first fall of the semi-final in 15 minutes with a leg strangle, preceded by a series of his favorite side slams. Arthur was worried considerably in this fall by Castle's leg holds on account of a mat burn on one leg.

The second fall, which last 19 minutes, was hard work all the way through for both wrestlers. Arthur, who is a lean wirey muscled lad and somewhat of a weight lifter, showed tremendous strength of legs in this fall when he broke what seemed to be a perfect Japanese double crab hold. Castle tried for some time to force the hold to completion, but Arthur's endurance finally enabled him to flip Castle from the hold. Arthur lost the fall when Castle neatly ducked under a flying drop kick. The missing of the kick caused Arthur to land heavily on the mat on his back. With the breath knocked from him, he was easily covered and pinned by Castle.

These two matches seemed to be one of the best crowd pleasing cards presented in Monroe during the current wrestling season. Gus Kallio, the promoter, announced that he would have two first class matches on the program for next week.

YELOVIC HERE ON TRIP TO ALBANY

John Yelovic, Monroe White Sox pitcher in 1939, was in town last night on his way to Albany, N. Y. He was sent there on option by the Dallas Rebels of the Texas League, who claimed him from the local club in payment of aid to the club last season.

Albany is in the Eastern League, a class A organization. John was very pleased to get a chance to go there as he figures he will be used in more games. Yelovic says he likes to be a workhorse as he pitches better ball when used more often. He demonstrated that by pitching in more than two hundred innings with the Sox last year, winning twenty-one and losing only nine. He walked only sixty-six men.

John was high in his praise of Monroe and still thinks that his stay here was the most pleasant of his baseball career. "Monroe is the best place, that I have seen in which to play ball," he declared.

Accompanying Yelovic on his trip north to join the Albany club was his wife and son.

CARLETON PUTS A NO-HIT GAME IN DODGER CAP

Dodgers Win Ninth Straight Victory Behind Perfect Performance

CINCINNATI, May 1.—(AP)—James Otto (Tex) Carleton, a 33-year-old refugee from the minors, stalked into baseball's no-hit hall of fame Tuesday by pitching the undefeated Brooklyn Dodgers to a 3 to 0 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds.

It was the ninth straight victory for the stampedng Dodgers, tying a modern major league record for consecutive wins at the start of the season—a string last attained by the New York Giants in 1918.

Carleton, a righthander who served terms with the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs and got into one World Series with the Cards and two with the Cubs, was one of several free agents the Dodgers picked up during the winter.

He refused to get unsettled by three errors his teammates committed in the early innings and in the last five frames set the National league champions down in order.

At the start of the contest, reeled off before 10,544 enthusiastic fans, was a tight mound duel between Carleton and the equally aged Jim Turner. But in the fifth Turner walked two men and Pete Coscarart hit a home run that accounted for all the scoring of the game.

It was Carleton's second victory this season. His other was over the Boston Bees in the Dodgers' third game when he won 8-3, giving up 10 hits, striking out six and issuing no walks.

Prior to Tuesday the National league had not had a no-hit game since Johnny Vander Meer of the Reds fashioned his "double" in June, 1938.

PHILS TRIM PIRATES

PITTSBURGH, May 1.—(AP)—Philadelphia's rookies had a field day Tuesday at the expense of Pittsburgh's slumping Pirates, winning a 6 to 2 victory after chasing the Buc's ace hurler Bobby Klinger.

First Baseman Art Mahan, Villa Nova graduate recently of Little Rock, playing his first major league game, doubled the first time up to drive in the first Philly run, then singled in the third with two outs to spark a three-run rally.

CUPID PLAYS TAG

ROANOKE, Va.—(AP)—A young man had two city tags for the same car and wanted a refund on one of them. He had told his girl he didn't have money to buy his auto tag. The young lady, cognizant of his approaching birthday, bought the tag as a present. In the meantime the young man had raised the money and bought one.

The council voted to refund the money—to the young lady.

BROWNS DEFEAT 'CHAMP' YANKS BY 2-1 SCORE

Southpaw Emil Bildilli Hurls Mound City Nine To Triumph

NEW YORK, May 1.—(AP)—The plague of portsiders that has kept the world champion Yaukees in quarantine this spring broke out again Tuesday with a two-hit pitching job by young Emil Bildilli of the St. Louis Browns and gave the westerners a 2 to 1 victory.

It was the first start of the season for the 25-year-old recruit from San Antonio in the Texas league and he was a bit nervous, letting Frank Crosetti open the New York half of the first inning with a triple and Red Rolfe follow with a single. That was a run—the Yank's only one—for afterward Bildilli gave never a hit and let just three men reach first.

Red Ruffing held the Browns to five safeties, but one of these was a homer by Rip Radcliff to tie the score in the fourth and two others were Walt Judnich's single and George McQuinn's double for the winning run in the sixth.

CHISOX WHIP RED SOX

BOSTON, May 1.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox started in where they left off last season by combing three Red Sox pitchers Tuesday for 12 hits and a 9-4 victory.

Every one of Jimmy Dykes' players hit safely and all but two of them scored. Eric McNair, ex-Red Soxer, paced the visitors by connecting for a homer and a single.

Righthander Johnny Rigney held the home forces to six hits, half of which came in the sixth inning when Jimmy Foxx bashed out his fourth 1940 homer after Doc Cramer and Ted Williams singled.

DIXIE

By Kenneth Gregory

ATLANTA, May 1.—(AP)—If things don't change, little Erskine college may live up to its nickname "Seceders." . . . Coach Jake Todd don't like the way Erskine opponents are handing out scholarships and says if there isn't a general de-emphasization the school will secede from football after the 1940 season. . . . Presbyterian and Newberry colleges, he said, "talked like they were interested." . . . A welcome dinner by the Monday Morning Quarterback club for Vanderbilt's new coaching staff is down for May 10.

"Many observers here," writes Ed Danforth (Atlanta Journal) from Louisville, "think the Derby field will include no more than eight starters—the smallest in years. They think Bimelech has frightened them all away."

Pitcher Clydell Castleman, on the New York Giants' voluntary retired list, has been working out with the Nashville Vols. . . . He says he's recovered from an old back injury. . . . Auburn's Jack Meagher will be an instructor in the Oklahoma high school coaching clinic at Oklahoma City in August. . . . Joe Engel has turned over $500 to a committee for "Knothole gang" activities in Chattanooga. . . . On May 17 the kids will greet Joe by forming the outline and seams of a baseball on the field in pattern color.

A letter from Jess Neely at Rice to Scoop Latimer (Greenville News) says linemen are scarce down his way. . . . "Joe and Dell (assistants) are out in west Texas trying to find a tackle," wrote Neely. "We hear of nothing but backs." . . . Louisiana State will send a team of six golfers to the National Intercollegiate at Manchester (N. H.) in June. . . . Bert McDowell, runner-up for the crown in 1938, will be on hand.

If Early Bolyard, Chattanooga outfielder, had one good gripe coming, he had two. . . . Against Atlanta last Sunday he poled two drives well over 400 feet into centerfield and got only triples on each. . . . Each hit came on the first pitched ball and in most any ball-yard would have been homers. . . . There should be quite a duel for Southeastern conference high jump honors in the annual track meet at Birmingham between J. C. Devall, Louisiana State sophomore, and Kelly Horn of Alabama. . . . Horn has cleared the bar at 6 feet, 7 1-8 inches and Devall has done 6 feet, 6 7-8 inches. . . . Both marks are well over the conference record.

GRAYS AND CHICAGO PLAY HERE TONIGHT

Tonight at Casino Park, the Homestead Grays, of Homestead, Pa., will meet the Chicago Giants, of the Negro American league, in a baseball exhibition. The Grays were champions of the Negro National league in 1937, '38 and '39. Vic Harris is the Homestead manager. He plays the outfield. He managed the Brooklyn All-Stars that beat the Cincinnati Reds in Cuba during the spring training season of 1936.

Fresh from a double-header victory over the strong Kansas City Monarchs in New Orleans Sunday, the Grays are in fine fettle to show their brand of baseball. The Chicago Giants were pennant contenders all the way in the Negro American league and are considered much stronger this year.

The National league champs feature the playing of John Gibson, a catcher, who is billed as the greatest negro player of all time. Other stars in their lineup include Buck Leonard and Woo Whatley. Manager Harris is also considered one of the best negro stars and has been with the team for four years and his team has won the pennant three of them.

This will be the first meeting of the two teams here. The Grays beat the Monarchs 6 to 0 Sunday in the first game, behind the two hit pitching of Raymond Brown, and 5 to 1 in the nightcap with Edsell Walker on the hill. Walker allowed the Monarchs four hits.

The Grays' lineup for tonight's game will be Whatley, rf., Benjamine, cf., Harris, lf., Leonard, 1b., Easterling, 3b., Gibson, c., Carlisle, 2b., Jackson, ss., Ferrel or Hicks, pitcher.

MALONE HURLS GREENWOOD TO 3-0 VICTORY

Henry's Home Run Features Choctaws' Attack On Floyd Speer

GREENWOOD, Miss., May 1.—(Special)—The Greenwood Choctaws took the first game of the two-game series from Monroe Tuesday night by a score of 3 to 0. Pat Malone, Choctaw right-hander, limited the Sox to six bingles, no two of them coming in one inning.

Malone walked four and hit one, but the White Sox could get only one man as far as third base. Henry, Cash and Amelung led the nine hit attack on Floyd Speer, with one of Henry's blows a home run over the left field wall.

Pete Medak kept up his sensational hitting spree getting two of the six hits garnered by the White Sox. He is currently swatting the apple for a .439 average, getting fifteen hits, two of them homers, in thirty-five times at bat.

Greenwood got their first score in the first frame with Griggs hitting a single, going to second on an infield out, and scoring on McSwain's single to right. Cash fanned to end the inning.

The Choctaws added another tally in the third on a home run by Henry. Greenwood scored their third and last run of the game in the sixth on a double by Cash. Rios and Amelung popped to Taitt in short right and Eager at short, respectively, but Rodgers doubled against the left center field score board to send home Cash.

Malone pitched a masterful game, bearing down whenever Monroe succeeded in getting a man on base. It seemed like Monroe was going to start a late rally in the eighth with one out, when Medak singled, but Malone bore down and forced Manager Doug Taitt to scoot a fast one to Amelung at first, who threw Medak out at second and then got to the bag in time to take the return throw from Henry to complete a double play and snuff out the rally.

Malone fanned four men, three with men on bases, and forced two to bound easy rollers to him.

Speer was in trouble in almost every

DIMAGGIO KNEE KEEPS STAR OUT

Doctor Tells Yankee Star To Stay Out Until Knee Heals

NEW YORK, May 1.—(AP)—Joe DiMaggio, the brightest star of the bedamned Yankees, doesn't have the slightest idea when he will be able to get in there and give the champions some help with his big bat.

"It might be in a few days and it might be quite a while before this knee is well," he said over a late breakfast, while his pretty new wife, the former Dorothy Arnold, refilled the coffee cups.

"I'm itching to play, but the doctor has told me not to move a wheel until I'm absolutely sure it's well. It doesn't feel bad now, except that now and then I feel a catch in back of my knee. I can't run much, though. If I got out there now every ball hit to center field would be a home run."

Joe hurt the knee—his right one—in an exhibition game just before the regular season began. The Yankees have missed him sorely, and some of the critics are satisfied this soon that they won't win a fifth straight flag without plenty of help from Joe.

"I don't think I'm quite that important," he smiled. "The gang just hasn't started hitting yet with men on the bases. We'll get going any day now, whether I'm in there or not. But I sure would like to play, because Boston and Cleveland both have better clubs this year."

Which brought up the subject of Joe's little brother, Dom, who also has been doing no playing to speak of with the Boston Red Sox. Dominick's ankle, which was injured down south, is troubling him again, Joe said.

"I think Dom's still a little scared about being in the big leagues," said Joe with a chuckle. "I know I was scared my first year up. But he'll come out of it. He's a nice kid, and you know, he's a lot bigger than he looks. We're all like that."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Eddie Brietz

NEW YORK, May 1.—If Buzz Bearden's staff at Churchill Downs is guarded by two special coppers 24 hours a day. . . . The Irish are making a fine comeback at Notre Dame. No fewer than four O'Briens and six Kellys are among the track candidates. . . . Giant stock has sunk so low here that for the first time in years and years one of the big New York papers didn't send a mag on the western swing. . . . Bill Terry will make a desperate bid for one more big crowd by putting Paul Dean against Dizzy when the Cubs first visit the Polo Grounds. . . . Lucky guy. The army captain who showed the customers in a Louisville bar receipts for 100 bucks worth of Bearden in the winter books got 12-1.

Hot Dog!

Fans who go for the rough and tumble stuff appear to be in for a big evening Friday. . . . The 147-pound boxing championships of the Metropolitan A. A. U. will be held on Pier 6, Staten Island.

Highway Robbery

Apparently Coach Peahead Walker of Wake Forest doesn't read the papers. . . . Mebbe he didn't know the West Virginia sports writers were crusading against "furriners" who slip into the state and skim the cream of the football talent. . . . Anyway, Walker arrived in Morgantown last week, unannounced and unarmed. . . . He registered at the same hotel where Bill Kern, West Virginia coach, puts up. . . . Then he fared forth and in less time than it would take to call the cops, had talked two Morgantown High stars into matriculating at Wake Forest. . . . Names, Andy Demao, all-state guard for two years, and Warren Sypolt, 200-pound center.

No Justice Dept.

After losing 17 in a row, Pitcher Pete Hader of the Columbus Red Birds broke into the win column—but wasn't around to see it. . . . St. Paul shelled Pete off the hill in the eighth, but Columbus rallied and went on to win. . . . News that he had chalked up his first victory since May 27, 1939, came to Pete while he was under the shower.

Sports Cocktail

Most of the betting on Buddy Baer vs. Nathan Mann is being done at the $2 windows. . . . Writers with the Yanks say the champs played like chumps in Washington and were lucky to escape with their lives. . . . Billy Conn who is spending a week with Mike Jacobs, is helping stone masons put up a chimney on Mike's Rumson, N. J., estate. . . . Ed Boell, New York U.'s top guy in both sports, says he'll take a teaching job over a pro career in either baseball or football. . . . Purdue has a second string fullback named Hal Schumacher who can do a little pitching in a pinch. . . . Joe Louis is due today to start work on his movie.

Today's Guest Star

Herb Simon, Chicago Times: "The Cubs, 'tis said, can trade Dizzy Dean even up to Brooklyn for Van Mungo. . . . How does that old saying go—an eye for an eye, a tooth for a toothache and a headache for a—etc.?"

Godoy Comes Again * * * Golf Tough Racket

NEW YORK, May 1.—(AP)—Arturo Godoy will get another chance at Joe Louis June 20, and whether he again spends the evening or is just the man who came to dinner depends on his ability to shed advice as well as punches.

Godoy stood up to the Bomber for 15 rounds the last time, although some critics were unkind enough to remark that if that was standing up they'd like to see Arturo really crouching, as they'd seen guys farther from the floor rolling peanuts with their noses.

Anyway, Godoy went into that bout with great respect for Louis, and if indulgent friends convince him that maybe he showed too much respect he might as well start picking a soft spot to land right now.

"Here's the way it is," says one well-informed critic. "Arturo's pals will slap him on the back and tell him what a great guy he is, and that if he just opens up a little and trades punches with Louis he'll be the new champion. If Godoy is influenced by these friends he'll think the roof fell on him. If he follows the same tactics he used last time, he probably can stay the limit again."

In other words, the best advice to Godoy is stop, look, but don't listen.

Golf fans, watching the tournament pros ambling about dolled up like window dummies and apparently living on the fat of the land should bend an ear to Byron Nelson, one of the more prosperous of the clan.

"I figure that a man is lucky if he can win enough in purses during the year to pay his traveling expenses," Nelson says. "It costs about $600 a month for a tournament golfer and his family. I figure the Open title is worth $15,000, directly and indirectly, and even that money may not come in for two or three years."

Nelson won $4,513 in purses from January 1 to April 15, and that sum, based on his figuring of $600 a month for expenses, gives him a neat profit. But he was one of the more fortunate. It's a tough racket unless the pro is tied up with some sporting goods firm, and even then he has his worries. If he doesn't continue to produce he's liable to find he's on his own.

HARE-RAISING SPRINTS

ABILENE, Kans.—(AP)—George Kibler teaches wild Kansas jackrabbits to run for their lives.

The jackrabbits are trained by Kibler to act as quarry for hounds in the National Coursing association's races held each spring.

Twice a day Kibler drives the wild rabbits through the racing course, teaching them to run from chutes directly to the escapes at the far end of the park and to slip under them.

Rabbits cost from 75 cents to $1 each and each one that fails to elude the hounds goes down in the loss column of the association's books.

INDIANS DOWN A'S

PHILADELPHIA, May 1.—(AP)—Two home runs each by Hal Trosky and Ken Keltner sparked the Cleveland Indians to a 10 to 5 victory over Philadelphia Tuesday.

The Indians peppered the offerings of two Athletic pitchers for 13 blows. The early inning barrage which included Trosky's first circuit blow with the bases empty cut short Herman Besse's pitching debut before home town folk in the third with the count 4 to 1 against him.

The husky Indian first sacker slapped out his second homer in the fourth, again with one one on. Third Baseman Keltner collected his hits in the seventh and ninth, likewise with the sacks empty.

Jeff Heath slapped out three consecutive doubles, while for the A's, Wally Moses collected a single, double and triple.

Jones Urges Democratic Principles Be Maintained

Governor-Elect Tells Methodists He Asks Practical Godliness

BATON ROUGE, La., May 1.—(AP)—Governor-Elect Sam H. Jones Tuesday night called upon Louisiana citizens for a practical godliness in insistently maintaining democratic principles in Louisiana.

"This administration," said Jones, "if it hopes to perpetuate honesty in government and continue along the paths of progress after Sam Jones goes out of office must keep every promise it made to the people.

"And it is up to you to see that your legislators back the governor in his determination to keep those promises. Neither the state nor its people can dodge the responsibility to aid the underprivileged and the unfortunate, the weak and the ill and the maimed."

Jones spoke at the annual banquet of the First Methodist church for new members of its congregation. His words were broadcast here and at Alexandria and Shreveport.

"You who touch godliness," the governor-elect said, "should see to it that you and your people practice godliness. You should back your governor and all your officials in every attempt they make to better conditions.

"You can't dodge behind the cloak of religion to lead a life devoid of activities beneficial to all the people. You have got to uphold the hands of the men who fought your battles for freedom."

Jones said he required support from all if he was to successfully restore Louisiana government to a level "where men and women may walk unafraid content with their lot proud of their citizenship, loving their state and their homes."

Godless doctrines breed discontent, dissension and war, he said.

"It becomes your duty," he asserted, "not only to preach the doctrines of God from your pulpits but to send forth your voices for the preservation of the democratic form of government as we know it. Under the constitution under which we live every man has a right to worship God in the manner in which he chooses. That right will continue just as long as you protect it."

The governor-elect said he had been greatly heartened by appeals for political and economical righteousness from clerics recently, from prelates in all religious groups in Louisiana. He scotched any idea "politics is too dirty" for godly men and women.

"Every one of you men and women is a part of politics," he said. "You can't keep out of politics. You can't be a Christian and not be a good citizen.

"If you want me to succeed as your governor it is your duty to lend me every aid to uphold my hands in carrying out what we believe is best for all the people.

"Politics simply means housekeeping • • • The state of Louisiana is the great home of every one of you. If you allow this home to be dirty, immoral, if you allow injustice and graft and corruption within this home, every citizen, every member of this great family all suffer. • • • If you do your duty, if you insist that your duly elected officials keep the great home clean, then we will have nothing to fear."

Jones said he believed it the duty of every Christian in Louisiana hereafter to insist that elections be honest, that elected officials keep their promises and that the state "enter into no crooked deals and enrich no parasites."

"Louisiana," he said, "did more in the recent election than demand a halt on extravagances, a halt on thievery. It did more than demand efficiency and honesty. It demanded the restoration of the proper moral values in public life.

"To my mind the greatest harm done by the years of machine rule and dirty political rule was the undermining of the moral fiber of our state.

"You can't trade the souls and hearts of men and women for dollars. You can't barter decency for joy-rides and high-jinks. You can't be content with seeing the rich become richer while the poor become poorer."

Jones said the time was at hand for a moral crusade for clean and efficient government.

"It is up to you to put religion into politics," he said, "so that politics may be pure and decent, so that great good can be done to the greatest number, so that the truism 'I am my brother's keeper' may be put into practical use."

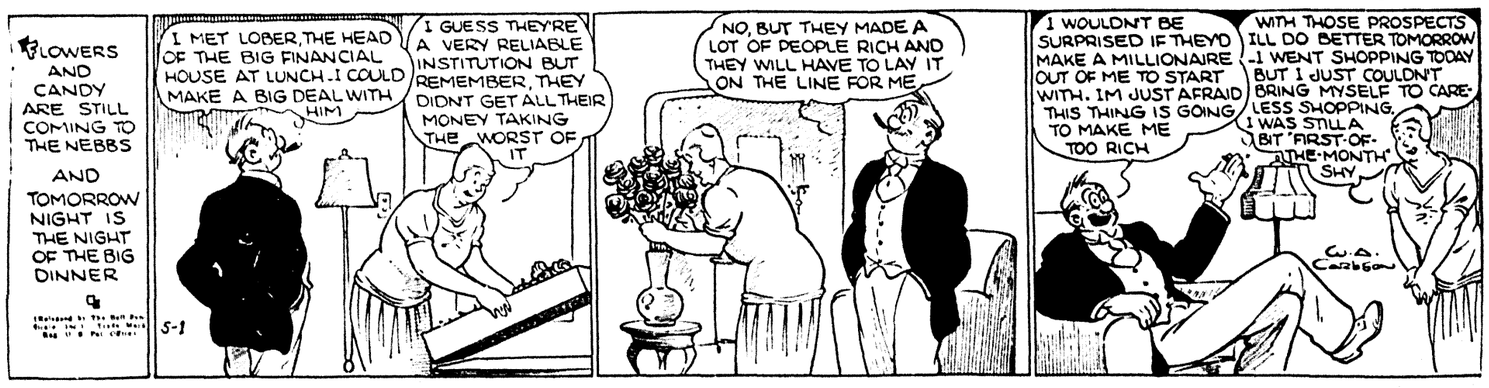
THE NEBBS — THROWING OUT BAIT — By Sol Hess



FLOWERS AND CANDY ARE STILL COMING TO THE NEBBS
AND TOMORROW NIGHT IS THE NIGHT OF THE BIG DINNER
I MET LOBER, THE HEAD OF THE BIG FINANCIAL HOUSE AT LUNCH- I COULD MAKE A BIG DEAL WITH HIM
I GUESS THEY'RE A VERY RELIABLE INSTITUTION BUT REMEMBER, THEY DIDN'T GET ALL THEIR MONEY TAKING THE WORST OF IT
NO, BUT THEY MADE A LOT OF PEOPLE RICH AND THEY WILL HAVE TO LAY IT ON THE LINE FOR ME
I WOULDN'T BE SURPRISED IF THEY'D MAKE A MILLIONAIRE OUT OF ME TO START WITH. I'M JUST AFRAID THIS THING IS GOING TO MAKE ME TOO RICH
WITH THOSE PROSPECTS I'LL DO BETTER TOMORROW- I WENT SHOPPING TODAY BUT I JUST COULDN'T BRING MYSELF TO CARELESS SHOPPING. I WAS STILL A BIT 'FIRST-OF-THE-MONTH' SHY

HUMPH! WHAT A HULLABALOO ABOUT A CRUMMY OL' BAG!
YOU'D THINK IT WAS LOADED WITH DIAMONDS
I WONDER WHAT HE'S GOT IN THERE, ANYHOW
SHUX! I DON'T SEE ANYTHING SO PRECIOUS IN THIS MESS OF STUFF!
I ALWAYS DID HAVE THAT GUY DOPED OUT AS A NUT

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, May 1.—(AP)—Steels aircrafts, motors and other shares associated with the sinews of war drifted lower today, carrying the whole stock market fractionally downhill.

Traders were motivated in their pessimistic outlook by indication that the campaign for the control of Norway was turning against the allies.

Losses were general throughout the lists toward the close, and the timidity of operators was shown by the small total of transactions, about 850,000 shares.

NEW YORK, May 1.—(AP)—Burdened by a downward drag in steels and aircrafts, the stock market moved lower in all divisions today.

Losses of as much as two points for some leaders appeared toward the final hour, but fractional upward fluctuations superseded the lowest quotations. Transactions were at the rate of about 800,000 shares.

Every eye in Wall Street followed the war news. Speculation turned from stocks to the possibility that the allies might lose their toehold in Scandinavia and, in consequence, much prestige with such neutrals as Italy.

The slate of retreating shares included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, United Aircraft, Sperry, DuPont, Union Carbide, Kennecott, American Smelting, Great Northern preferred, General Electric, Loft and Western Auto Supply. The latter was off as much as 6 points at one time, but showed some comeback later.

Bonds paralleled the stock trend. Commodities were uneven. The Amsterdam bourse was fairly steady, but markets in London and Paris slipped.

early education in the Baltimore public schools. After graduation from Episcopal High school, Alexandria, Va., he received his A.B. degree from Johns Hopkins university in 1905.

Thence he entered the Virginia Theological seminary at Alexandria. He was ordained a deacon at the Memorial church, Baltimore, in 1908, ordained priest at St. Michael's church, Baltimore, in 1909.

He served as assistant rector at Trinity church, Towson, Md., and at St. Paul's church, Baltimore. He was rector of Emmanuel church, Harrisonburg, Va., from 1910 to 1914 and then went to St. Martin's church, Charlotte.

The tall, rugged ecclesiastic says his chief relaxation, when he takes any at all from work which absorbs him, is taking long walks, the heritage of his years as a mountaineer. And he loves to watch baseball.

He, his wife and their daughter, Miss Eleanor P. Jackson, will make their home in the Episcopal residence, 2136 Pevtania street. Bishop Morris, who retired last year because of ill health, will leave tomorrow with his wife for Sewanee, Tenn., for at least a year's residence on the campus of the University of the South.

Rev. Jackson said his first plan was to familiarize himself with every communicant, clergyman, parish and mission of his diocese. He will preach Sunday morning at St. James church, Baton Rouge, and the following Tuesday and Wednesday will visit the archdeaconries of Lake Charles, Shreveport and Alexandria.

My plans are to develop missionary programs inside the diocese of Louisiana," he said, "and to that end I want to become personally acquainted with the clergy, their families, the communicants and the churches themselves as soon as possible."

RED CROSS AID IS SOUGHT BY 73 FAMILIES

Highway Patrolman Butler Byrd said it flowed over highway 61.

Highway workmen toiled through the night in order to protect the road bed from the surging flood waters. Byrd said he believed there would be no material damage to the road itself. It was not deep enough to interfere with traffic, he added.

The oldest residents of Port Gibson could not recall when the little bayou had risen to such heights. Byrd said the grandstand in a baseball park near the bayou and a negro night club had been washed away.

TOWN ISOLATED

LAKE CHARLES, La., May 1.—(AP)—A small tornado, which moved only a short distance through the southwest Louisiana countryside, did considerable damage to stores and houses at Bell City, a small farming community 23 miles southeast of here, Monday night.

Telephone communications between Lake Charles and Bell City were disrupted by the severe thunderstorm which struck the entire area Monday afternoon and word of the disaster reached here only last night. Roads were badly damaged by the rain and in some places were under from 18 to 24 inches of water.

No one was reported injured in the storm which damaged several homes and stores and destroyed trees and telephone lines. Most serious damage was reported done to the Catholic church near Bell City, which was lifted into the air and dropped four feet from its foundations.

The back was torn out of the church by the force of the wind, Father Mathieu Cramers, pastor, said, but the altar which stood against the rear of the wooden building was undamaged.

SHIPS ROUTED PAST AFRICA 'TEMPORARILY'

German-held Oslo and Trondheim, isolating allied forces on the central Norwegian coast, found no confirmation in London.

Balanced against the German claim was a British war office announcement that "fresh landings have taken place on the coast of Norway" and that the British, "fighting with indomitable courage, have resisted any further advances by the enemy" in the region of Dombas, strategic junction of railways linking Andalsnesjn, a British coastal base, with Oslo and Trondheim.

The Germans had announced capture of Dombas as well as the establishment of the Oslo-Trondheim contact at Steren, to the north.

DENIES WAR AIM

ROME, May 1.—(AP)—United States Ambassador William Phillips was understood today to have been assured by Premier Mussolini that no war move is contemplated by Italy at present.

Phillips conferred with Il Duce this morning to receive first hand information on Italy's position and intentions in view of recent international developments.

EMPLOYMENT RISE CITED BY M'NUTT

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(AP)—Federal Security Administrator McNutt reported today that private employers had hired 18 per cent more persons during March than they did in the same month last year.

"Authoritative reports * * *," he said, "indicate that there is an increasing demand for workers in industry and commerce. Slowly but surely the level of the country's great reservoir of idle workers is falling."

WEISS, HART ATTACK FRAUD INDICTMENT

SHREVEPORT, La., May 1.—(AP)—Demurrers attacking a mail fraud indictment returned at Monroe against Monte E. Hart, New Orleans contractor, and Leon C. Weiss, New Orleans architect, have been filed in the federal clerk's office here. The indictment grew out of an alleged $59,914.42 overcharge in connection with the construction of Leche hall at Louisiana Polytechnic institute, at Ruston.

In addition to the demurrers motions of misjoinder as to parties plaintiff, misjoinder as to offenses, a plea of statute of limitations and applications for bills of particulars were filed.

Harvey G. Fields, United States attorney, announced that the motions would be resisted. He pointed out that similar demurrers filed in behalf of former Governor Richard W. Leche, Speaker of the House Lorris Wimberly and others, had been overruled by the federal courts.

FIRE LOSS $15,000 AT CLARKS GARAGE

CLARKS, La., May 1.—(Special)—Fire destroyed the Louisiana Central Lumber company's lumber yard garage and 13 model T Ford lumber jitneys, and other equipment stored in the garage, at 9 p.m. on Monday, with an estimated loss of more than $15,000.

It is believed that the fire originated from lightning during the severe electrical storm. A heavy rain was also falling when the building caught and was of material assistance in bringing the fire under control, and in preventing its spread to near buildings.

The loss is covered by insurance. However, as a result of the fire the company's pine and hardwood plants were closed on Tuesday.

Aunt Emma Goes to School

'Aunt Emma is looking forward to the Annual News-Star—World Cooking School eagerly. She says, "No matter how good a cook my family thinks I am, I am looking impatiently forward to the time when comes The News-Star—World Cooking School, for I know that I will be shown lots of new ways to dress up old foods," and she slyly adds, "Old dogs CAN learn new tricks."

You bet your life "old dogs can learn new tricks." And right now The News-Star—World is completing arrangements to put on the biggest and the best cooking school that Northeast Louisiana has ever seen. The list of major prizes to be awarded, as well as the list of daily attendance awards is the best yet; and we have obtained as instructor one of the best, we believe, culinary artists to be had. Watch the columns of this paper for formal announcement of the school.
